

Community Energy and a Green Recovery

3 September 2020

14.00-16:00

This free online community forum is for anyone interested in local energy, climate change and taking practical action for a green recovery. We'll update you on what we've been up to since our last community energy forum in June, share insights from our latest regional community energy state of the sector report, and hear from an inspirational community organisation creating jobs and delivering energy efficiency and retrofit work. We also want to hear from you so there will be plenty of time for interaction. We will divide into groups for Q&A so there will be something for everyone, whatever stage you are at on your community energy journey. This forum is for communities interested in energy, climate activists, advanced community energy groups, local authorities, and anyone working with or supporting community energy organisations.
